QUOTES FOR CONTEMPLATION

It is a delightful and profitable exercise to recognize the sovereign hand of God in the lives of the ancient saints of old, to observe His goodness in delivering them, His mercy in forgiving them, and His faithfulness in keeping His covenant with them. However, wouldn't it be even more interesting and profitable for us to recognize the hand of God in our own lives? Shouldn't we notice that our own history is at least as full of God's goodness, truth, faithfulness, and righteousness as any of the lives of the saints who have gone before us?

We do our Lord an injustice when we presume He worked all His mighty acts and displayed His strength to those in ancient times, but no longer works miracles or shows His power to the saints now living on earth. If we would only review our own lives, surely we would discover a number of blessed occasions that would refresh our faith and bring glory to God. Haven't you had experiences where He has delivered you? Haven't you passed through deep rivers supported by His divine presence? Haven't you walked through various fiery trials unharmed? Haven't you seen His miracles in your life? Haven't you seen numerous blessings from Him?

Hasn't the same God who gave Solomon his “heart's desire” (2 Chron. 1:11) listened to you and answered your requests? Hasn't the lavish God of abundance of whom David sang, “Who satisfies your desires with good things” (Ps. 103:5), “filled [you] with ... bounty” (Jer. 31:14) as well? Hasn't He ever made you “lie down in green pastures” or led you “beside quiet waters” (Ps.23:2)? Surely the goodness of God has been the same to us as to the saints of old.

-C. Spurgeon
